Oglethorpe:

There's no other place like it.

Oglethorpe

The bells on top of Lupton Hall add an element of glory to the campus.

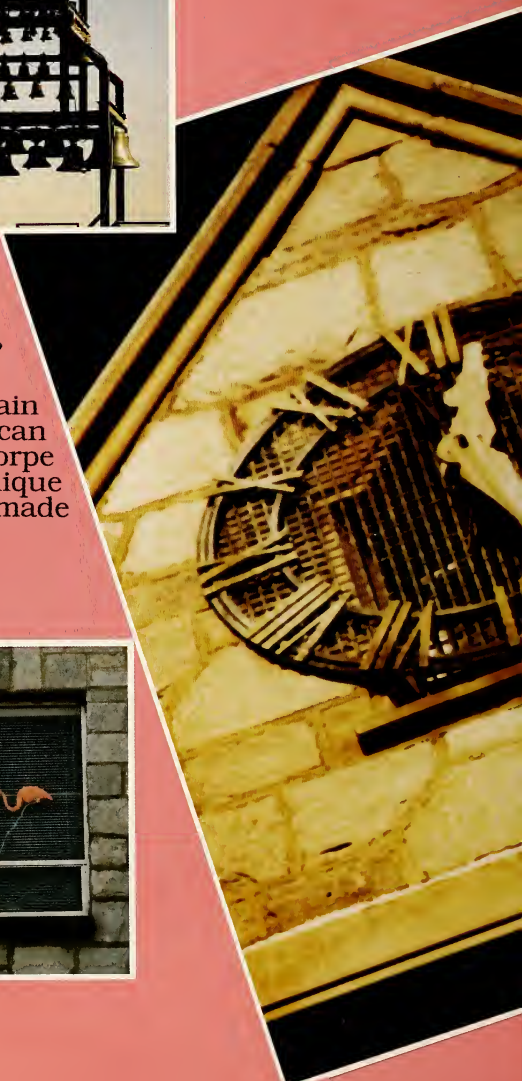

Only at O.U.

These next pages contain examples of things that can only be found at Oglethorpe University. It is the unique stuff that we Petrels are made of!

Dr. Wolf's flamingo keeps a watchful eye over the Academic Quad.

Only an Oglethorpe student would drive a car like this one!

This little shed symbolizes the amount of importance placed upon athletics at O.U.

The sundial given by the Colonial Dames of America in 1993.

The unfinished baseball stadium.

The beautiful architecture of the library.

The Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The grungy bathtub in the old apartment on the third floor of the library. YUCK!

One of the bells on top of Lupton Hall that was given to Oglethorpe by Grace Josephine Lesh. (Why don't they ever ring?)

The barbed wire fence that surrounds the campus. (Shouldn't it point outward instead of inward?)

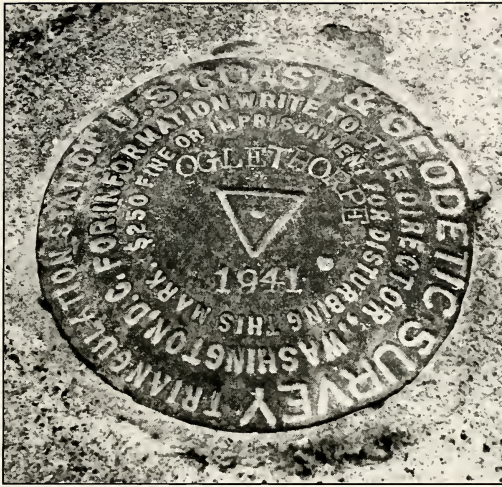

The gatehouse: the best security system in the country!

The beautiful scenery on Oglethorpe's campus.

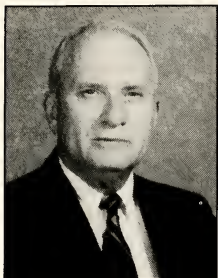

This marker can be found on top of Lupton Hall. It is one of the few places in Atlanta where a person can stand and have a clear view of both Stone Mountain and Kennesaw Mountain.

The Guinness Book of World Records identifies the Crypt of Civilization as "the first successful attempt of bury a record of this culture for any future inhabitants or visitors to the planet earth" (1990). The Crypt was first proposed by Oglethorpe's president, Thornwell Jacobs, the "father of the modern time capsule." It was sealed on May 28, 1940, and it is not to be opened until May 28, 8113 A.D. The chamber is the size of a swimming pool and contains over 640,000 pages of micro-filmed material, a set of Lincoln logs, a Donald Duck doll, and thousands of other items from daily life. There also is a device designed to teach the English language to the Crypt's finders. The International Time Capsule Society was established in 1990 and serves to promote the careful study of time capsules. The group holds its headquarters here at Oglethorpe University.

Professor James Bohart:
Associate Professor of Music

Here at Oglethorpe we are graced with the presence of professors who help to break the monotony of everyday life. Some do this by introducing music, art, and drama into our classes and on the stage.

Dr. W. Irwin Ray: Director of Musical Activities

Professor Lee Knippenberg;
Director of the Drama Program

Paul Hudson helps you get your classes in the registrar's office.

Dr. Jay Lutz: Associate Professor of French

Professor Lloyd Nick:
Director of Arts Programs and the University Museum

The write stuff

"I have a paper due next week." Does this phrase sound familiar? Well it should, since one of the largest emphasis in Oglethorpe education is the ability to write a good paper. And to help you with this task, we have a superior English staff that is more than willing to tell you what you're doing wrong.

Dr. Douglas McFarland: Assistant Professor of English

Dr. William Brightman: Professor of English

Did you ever wonder how you could embarrass your professors? Well, a few of them have shared some of their most embarrassing experiences with us. Have you ever wandered into a class on the first day and later realized you were in the wrong room? Imagine that happening to the professor, a few of our own professors have had this happen to them. In addition, Dr. Ray once conducted an orchestra performance with his tie caught in his zipper.

Dr. Michael McClure: Assistant Professor of English

Dr. Victoria Weiss: Professor of English

What exactly do these people do when they aren't devising ways to put more stress in our lives? Believe it or not, some of them use their free time to pursue a hobby, some stranger than others. Professor Jim Bohart plays with model railroads, while Dr. Dan Schadler grows crysanthemums. Dr. Michael McClure spends his time feeding a spider named Gloria, and Dr. Dean Tucker does everything from practicing magic to building doll house furniture. (And you thought your professors weren't interesting!)

Dr. Linda Taylor: Professor of English

Dr. Barbara Clark: Professor of English

And That's The Way It Was...

Dr. David Thomas: Professor of History

Dr. Alexander Martin: Assistant Professor of History

Learn How to Teach

Dr. Deborah Wilkes: Assistant Professor of English

Dr. Vienna Volante: Associate Professor of Education

Dr. John Stevens: Professor of Education

Dr. David Chawaszczewski: Assistant Professor of Education

How smart are these people anyway?

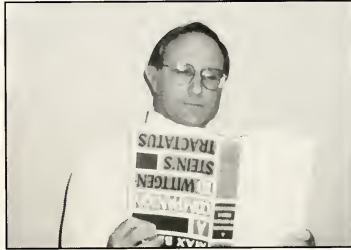

The I.Q.s of our staff go to various extremes.

Dr. Hetherington and Dr. Carlisle share a similar I.Q. of 9.5 which also happens to be their shoe sizes. While Dr. Clark gives herself a little more credit with a response of at least 40. Then again we have our super extreme genius Lee Knippenberg who tips the scales at 2,479.6. (I think she put the decimal in the wrong place.) Others didn't share their I.Q.s with us--what are they trying to hide?

Understanding Our Place In The World

Dr. Philip J. Neujahr: Professor of Philosophy

Sanity Is A Relative Term

Dr. Timothy H. Hand: Assistant Professor of Psychology

Dr. Nancy H. Kerr: Professor of Psychology

Dr. Alan N. Woolfolk: Associate Professor of Sociology

Dr. Brad L. Stone: Professor of Sociology

We've Hit A Depression

Dr. Bruce Hetherington: Professor of Economics

Dr. Dean Tucker: Associate Professor of Business Administration and Economics

Oh! College, what an experience - - one that some are doomed to repeat. Our professors are some of these people. Let's see where some of them got started. Dr. Ray: Samford, originally a chemistry major. Professor Bohart: Northern Illinois University. Professor Nick: Yale. Dr. Schadler: Thomas More College. Dr. Cramer: Wheaton College. Dr. Clark: Georgia State. Dr. McClure dropped out of U. Virginia. Dr. Tucker: Ohio State. Dr. Carlisle: Emory University. Dr. Hetherington: Madison College. Professor Lee Knippenberg: Young Harris College. Dr. Martin: Cornell University.

Dr. William C. Schulz: Assistant Professor of Business Administration

Dr. William F. Straley: Associate Professor of Business Administration

How It All Adds Up

Professor Keith E. Baker: Director of Accounting Studies

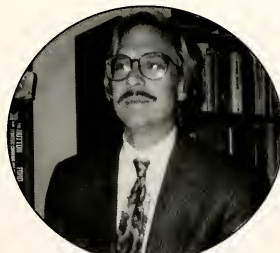

Dr. Mary M. Middleton: Associate Professor of Accounting

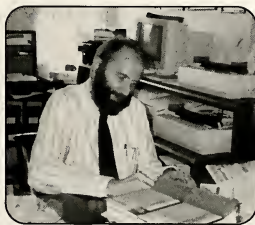

Political Aspirations

Dr. Joseph M. Knippenberg: Associate Professor of Political Studies

Dr. John D. Orme: Associate Professor of Political Studies

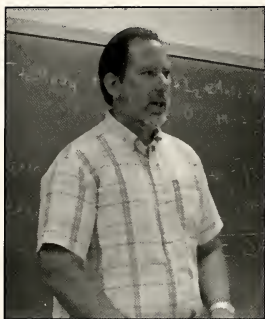

Dr. Ronald L. Carlisle: Professor of Computer Science and Mathematics

Hacking Through College

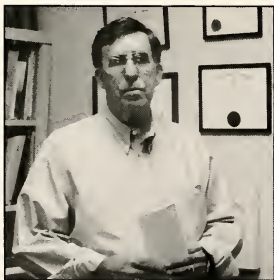

The Lab Rats

Dr. Keith Aufderheide: Professor of Chemistry

Dr. Martha Rosenthal: Professor of Biology

Dr. G. Malcolm Amerson: James Edward Oglethorpe Professor of Biology

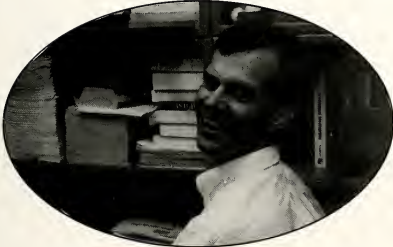

Dr. Daniel L. Schadler: Professor of Biology

We asked the teaching staff what they would call a movie about their life stories and who would play them. Did you know that Dr. Schadler could see himself portrayed in a movie by Tom Cruise? As you can see, we received some interesting responses. Lee Knippenberg sees herself in "Beyond the Proscenium" with Sandy Duncan. Dr. Carlisle would be played by Marty Feldman, while Dr. Clark would be portrayed by Shirley Temple. So what do you think of these choices? Who do you think should portray our fine faculty?

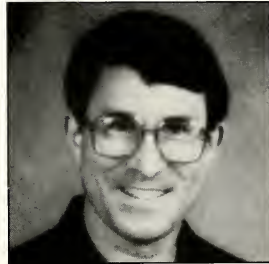

Dr. Monte W. Wolf: Professor of Chemistry

It's In The Numbers

Dr. Michael K. Rulison: Professor of Physics

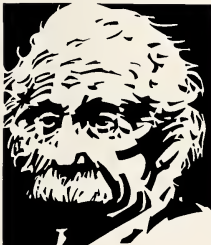

Dr. John A. Cramer: Professor
Physics

Dr. Robert A. Blumenthal: Professor of Mathematics

Dr. Raymond J. Kaiser: Assistant
Professor of Mathematics

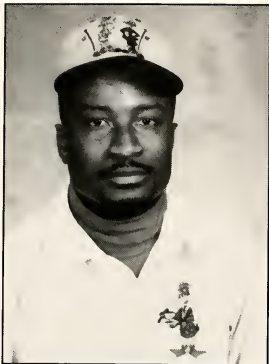

So far we have shared with you some little known facts we gathered about the faculty. Some may have been amusing, some you could have lived without, like Dr. Ray's partiality towards "Star Trek: the Next Generation" as opposed to Dr. martin's preference of the original Star Trek. We spared you political divisions and other boring facts. All in all we hope you learned a little more about your professors, maybe enough to taunt them.

RHA FALL CARNIVAL

The Fall Carnival, sponsored by RHA, brought sideshow fun to the Oglethorpe campus. It featured many games and prizes as well as a Starwalk and free cotton candy. It also provided the long awaited "Hit Randy Tidwell With A Cream Pie" event. DAKA provided a cookout and fun was had by all attendees.

Parent's Weekend

Parent's weekend is a time when families come to Oglethorpe and visit their college kids. (They also come to spy and confiscate illegal contraband.) But, really, it is a time of great fun to see how the students live and meet their friends and professors. During this year's Parent's Weekend, parents were invited to attend lectures given by the faculty and staff. Other events that occurred this weekend were a Petrel soccer game, the RHA Fall Carnival, a reception at the president's house, a performance by the University Singers, and a magic show by Dr. Dean Tucker.

Can you do this, on stage?

Cathryne Callaway, Lucy MacGregor,
and Scott Stagg give us their rendition of "Closer to Fine."

Do you have what it takes to get up on stage in front of an open audience of Ogelthorpe students? Well some of your peers did earlier this year in the Bomb Shelter's "Open Mike Night." Students both new and old displayed their talents with music, poetry readings, original stories, and even juggling. Do you think you'll be able to participate next year? Who knows, maybe you'll be a hit.

How'd he do that?

Anyone who has doubts about the powers of ESP was made a believer after seeing Craig Karges in action. "Entertainer of the Year" Craig Karges brought his "Magic of the Mind" show to the OU campus in September. He fascinated the audience with his incredible abilities as an illusionist. Levitating tables, making predictions that came true during the course of the show, as well as other acts that seemed totally beyond reason were the common fare.

According to the Karges, "We only use 0-20% of our minds. Think about the capabilities that must lie within the 80-90% of our unused minds." Obviously Karges has tapped into the 80-90% potential judging from his mindboggling performance

Sidekick Mote (Mandy Gardner) lets his feelings be known to everyone!

"Love's Labor's Lost"

On October 14-17, the Playmakers successfully performed Shakespeare's comedy, "Love's Labor's Lost" under the direction of Lee Knippenberg. This story tells how King Ferdinand of Navarre and his three friends decide to retire to the woods and spend three years of studying, fasting, and speaking to no women. However, their plan is destroyed when the Princess of France and her three ladies come to Navarre on a diplomatic mission. The four men of Navarre become intrigued by the French women and write sonnets to them. The women, after discovering that the king and his courtiers are coming with masks to woo them, mask themselves and see to it that each man gets the wrong girl. After this is cleared up, word comes that the King of France is dead and the princess must return. King Ferdinand asks the princess to marry him, and his lords propose to her ladies, who join the princess in postponing their answer for a year and a day. This delightful play was typically Shakespearean, filled with word play and consistently holding the audience's attention.

Submitted by Yoli Hernandez

The princess and three other ladies (Helen Hollfield, Kimberly Worley, Jennifer Wyatt, and Stacey Geagan) successfully confuse the king and friends.

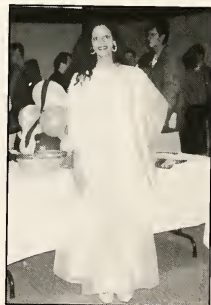

The king (Chris Brown) and his men (Troy Dwyer, James Gramling, and Tharius Sumter) mock Costard's (John Shiley) performance.

INTERNATIONAL NIGHT

The belly dancer made sure that Dr. Stanton enjoyed International Night. But what about Mrs. Stanton?

On November 6th the annual International Night, organized by the members of the International Club, occurred. This year the club decided on a theme of "Peace and Festivities" because the members thought people needed to think of peace in the war-torn world of today. There were special displays of the European Economic Community flag and the flag of the Philippines, which tells the story of war and peace. A May-Pole from Great Britain, the story of Halloween from Ireland, a "Vesak Lantern" from Sri Lanka were just some of the objects on display. Special contributions from the French Club and the Black Student Caucus were also included. The entertainment for the night began with a message of peace delivered by Dr. Smith. A belly dancer, Greek, Latin American, and Japanese dancers combined with Russian, French, Arabic, and Georgian (the Republic) music to make a wonderfully successful night.

The belly dancer dazzled everyone with her perfect sense of balance and swinging hips.

These traditional Russian musicians performed Russian folksongs.

CROSS COUNTRY

Final Results: Out of eight teams in Conference, the men ranked fourth and the women ranked fifth. Both Doug Pack and Stephanie Chaby were named All-Conference. Out of all the schools in the South, the men ranked ninth and the women ranked twelfth. Over the last 40 years, both teams have been 40-1 in dual meets. Doug, Derek, Stephanie, Katie, and Linda were named All-Metro during the meet that involved various schools from Atlanta.

Doug Pack qualified for the National meet held in Iowa this year. Under the pressure of powerful competition and cold weather, he ran the five kilometer race in a time of 27 minutes and 42 seconds. Doug placed 162 out of 182 of the best runners in the nation.

GREEK HOUSING

The majority of the new Greek houses for the four fraternities and two sororities on campus were to be completed by middle to late August. However, several delays occurred. During the spring and early summer, heavy rain slowed the progress of construction. The next serious delay came when the Greek members discovered that there were not going to be any stoves available in the houses. This delay occurred because the architect failed to design proper ventilation to allow for stoves in the basement of the houses. On October 15th, the Delta Sig and KA houses seemed to be completed, but both houses failed inspection. Meanwhile, Chi Phi was about to be forced out of their house off of Wieuca with no where to place all of their possessions. In November everyone was finally settled in their new houses.

The brothers of Chi Phi were forced to find a place to store their possessions while they waited for the completion of the house.

The brothers of SAE asked for a lion to be placed on the front lawn. The lion was the subject of vandalism during the completion of the houses.

OGLETHORPE EXPEDITIONS UNLIMITED

Will doesn't even need to use a rope!

Expeditioners are the cool outdoorsy people who climb mountains and ride killer rapids for fun. President Will Corum, an experienced outdoorsy person, knows all of the safety regulations and invites anyone to join in the fun.

Troy Dwyer, Lu Green, Will Corum, and Katie Farrell take time to smile for the camera while they wait to ride the rapids.

Stephanie Hunter still manages to smile even though she is about to crash into a rock.

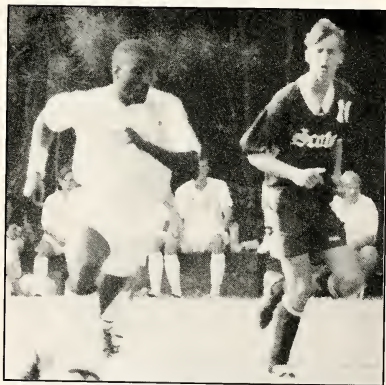

MEN'S SOCCER

The men's soccer team finished this season with a 7-9-2 record, placing them sixth in the SCAC. The season was plagued with injuries, arguments, ejections from games, and ineligibility problems. Despite these problems, several players achieved All-Conference honors. Will Lukow was named Co-Player of the Year. Joe Aykempong was named to the first team. Cameron Bready, John Nunes, and Rob Fearon were named to the second team. Congratulations guys! Several players will graduate this year. They include Captain Cameron Bready, Joe Aykempong, and Rob Hutcheson. They will be greatly missed!

The Lady Petrels finished this season with their best record ever. The women finished with a final record of 8-8-1, which placed them third in the SCAC. They beat their new conference rival, Hendrix. The ladies also had players named to the All-SCAC team. Junior Kirsten Hanszek made the first team, while senior Michelle Ponte and freshman Tinnie Waterston made the second team. Seniors Michelle Ponte and Andrea Beasley will graduate this year and will be missed by the team. Much of the team's improvement is due to the new coach Todd Yelton. The ladies have shown happiness with his style and techniques of coaching. We're proud of our Lady Petrels!

Black Student Caucus Dance Contest

Bruce Wilkes and Maggie McDonald participated as contestants #10 and #13.

The Black Student Caucus organized an all-night dance contest in November. Contestants started dancing at about 9:30 p.m. and the last dancer quit at 8:30 the next morning. The winner was a student from Agnes Scott who received $50 from BSC. Oglethorpe students with an I.D. were invited to the dance for free. The BSC members worked hard to make sure the dance was a blast, and they succeeded!!

Jason Knaley struts his stuff!

These are just a few of the BSC members who worked hard to organize the dance contest.

THE DATA GENERAL GAMES

Pictured from left are: Ronald L. Skates, President & CEO of Data General, Paul Mahar, Katie Farrell, David Stevens, and Michelle John.

A team of our students won the Data General Games, which also challenged students from Georgia Tech and Morehouse College to devise a solution to Atlanta's traffic problems over the next 20 years. The Games were sponsored by the Data General Corporation and held at the Inforum on October 26. The Oglethorpe team members received an all-expenses paid trip to the 1994 Uniform conference in San Francisco, March 21-24. In addition, Data General donated a color laptop computer to Oglethorpe. Our winning proposal recommended creating an automated Nerve Center, which would be in contact with all elements of Atlanta's transportation system. The nerve center would both receive and transfer information to and from vehicles, maintaining constant surveillance of the alternate routes available to them.

Morehouse students and Oglethorpe students compare their traffic solutions.

OΔK

OΔK initiates anxiously await their chance to kiss the pig.

The Great Hall is a wonderful place for a Christmas tree or an initiation.

Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership fraternity here at Oglethorpe, held its initiation as always during the annual Boar's Head Ceremony. This year OΔK more than doubled the size of their active student members adding nine students to the ranks. OΔK also was proud to initiate two members of our faculty. The Oglethorpe chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa now stands at 43 strong with these people in their ranks:

BOAR'S HEAD CEREMONY

The Boar's Head ceremony officially begins the holiday season here at OU. The ceremony is inspired by the Coat of Arms of the family of James Edward Oglethorpe. It depicts the profiles of three beast's heads representing the strength, courage and vigor of the Oglethorpe family.

In keeping with tradition, the ceremony included the presentation of the new members of Omicron Delta Kappa, the lighting of the campus Christmas tree, the annual Christmas concert by the OU Singers, and other holiday musical performances, including the OU Winds, the Recorder Ensemble, Yuko Nishimura singing Handel's "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion", and OU's president Dr. Donald Stanton, singing "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day".

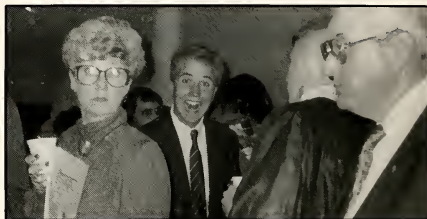

Following the ceremony was a reception, held in the Oglethorpe University Museum, and the new ODK initiates kissing of the Boar's Head.

We distributed questionnaires to the student body in order to capture the spirit of Oglethorpe students. Here are just a few of the wackiest responses that we received :

Name someone on campus who resembles a famous person.

- * Kent McKay looks like Mr. Clean.
- * Dr. Knippenberg looks like Rick Moranis (It's gotta be the glasses and the hair).
- * Will Lukow looks like William Shatner. Hair, sideburns, attitude...it's all reminiscent of the old Star Trek.
- * Dr. Schadler looks like Mr. Spacely on the Jetsons.
- * Mrs. Stanton looks like Margaret Thatcher.
- * Julie Agster looks like the girl who played Wednesday in the Addams Family movie.

What is the strangest thing that you've caught your roommate doing?

- * Shaving certain body parts.
- * Singing loudly and dancing around the room to country music while half-dressed. (She was unaware that the door was open and I had a few friends with me.)
- * Studying.
- * Chasing squirrels.
- * Waking up in the middle of the night and running outside because he thought it was raining.

What one word do you think best describes the Oglethorpe community?

*TIRED

*COOL

*LOONEY BIN

*GOSSIP

*TINY

*CONFUSED

*APATHETIC

*SLEEPY

*STUDIOUS

*GOSSIP

*CORPSES

*SMALL, DAMN SMALL!
(OOPS, THAT'S TWO WORDS.)

*FRIENDLY BUT INDIFFERENT

*LAZY

What do you typically do to avoid studying?

- * Read fantasy novels
- * Clip my toenails
- * Tutor other students in the same subject

Oglethorpe Leadership Day

An EXPERIENCE Not To Be Soon Forgotten!

Imagine riding through a futuristic cityscape, or flying into canyons and caves, or riding on a roller coaster that's not quite... real. Add a whole lot of sound and motion and you've got The Alpha Experience. It is truly an experience! You get the feeling of travelling everywhere and yet you never leave your seat, you are just on the edge of it the whole time. Actually, seat belts are provided so you don't accidentally leave your seat but they don't detract from the feel at all and kept you from getting injured. This virtual reality ride is one which would be welcomed again in the future.

Students: Shaken, not stirred.

A look at what's inside.

The Red Cross Blood Drive

It's Not As Bad As It Looks

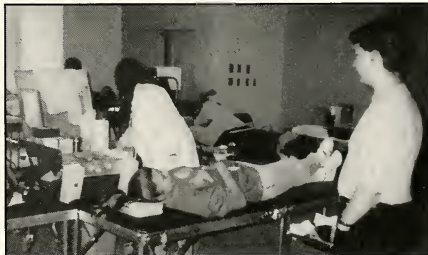

Filling Out Forms

The Blood Drive is a very important event. It means people's lives can be saved with blood transfusions when needed. It also means free food and drinks for those who participate. This school year OU received an award for the largest percent of participation for a school its size. It is nice to know there are people who care enough to donate blood that is desperately needed.

Thank you to all the Oglethorpe students and staff that participated and made this project possible.

At least they let you lay down.

The Blood Drive workers need to make sure everything is alright with your blood.

Oglethorpe Leadership Day

This was the second Oglethorpe Leadership Day organized by the Community Life office and ODK for the development of student leadership. Bill Kelso and Joe Buck conducted the days activities. Students were asked to answer questions like "who am I?", "What do I think of those around me?" and "How do I interact with them?"

Students worked on leadership action plans which were to promote new ideas. Working in groups they had to come up with ideas and then develop plans to successfully implement them. Questions on ethics and prejudice were also discussed.

It was a lot of fun and a great experience. We learned more about ourselves and about each other exchanging ideas and listening to each other. Learning more effective methods of leadership, but, most importantly we had a wonderful, enjoyable time with friends.

Aretha, Jamie, Troy and Killian discover they have personalities that love to "party."

"What do you admire about those around you?" -- Let them know how you feel.

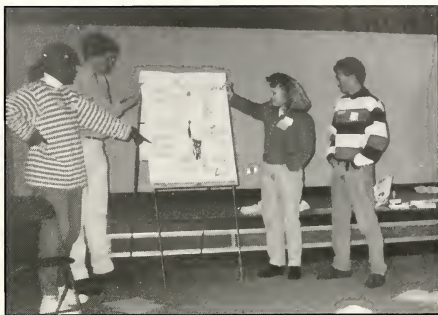

"Who am I? Who am I? Who am I?" -- Student, friend, daughter, teacher. Choosing what is most important to one's self.

Rod, Amy, Will and Stephanie identify their group purpose.

The ideal college student is described by Stephenie, Barbara, Randy, Killian and Amy.

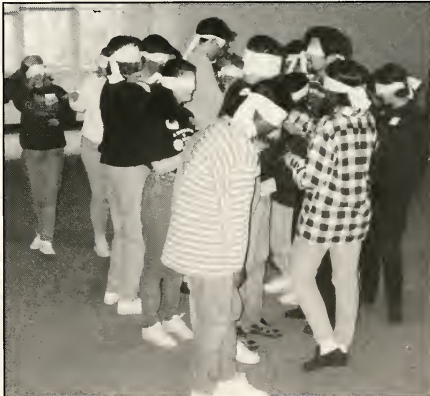

Aretha, David, Jamie and Simon explain the character of an "Elected Official."

In how many different ways can we communicate? Learning to communicate without seeing or talking takes a group effort.

Hope crosses the imaginary river of crocodiles alone to save herself.

GEEK WEEK

OAT take on the Faculty Academic Team (FAT)

This years Geek Week organized by ODK had very stiff competition. Stephen Cooper however emerged the individual champion while the Justice League took the group title.

The weeks activities included some very interesting activities such as "Politically Correct Shakespeare", Economics and Mathematics problems, a world scavenger game, foreign language spelling bees and many more activities.

The lucky winners received handsome cash prizes for their outstanding efforts to prove themselves worthy "geeks."

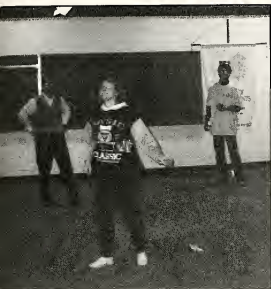

Stephen Cooper and Bill Davis battle at a game of Lightning Chess while Dr Kaiser looks on.

Will Corum and Mark Caprio concentrate hard as the clock keeps ticking.

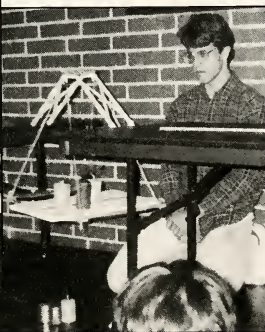

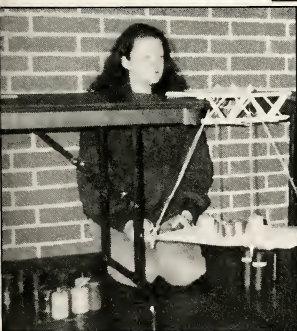

David Barnhart and Bill Girton contemplate their next moves.

SPS Paper Airplane Contest Michelle Curtis and Dave Leach try their luck and Dr Rulison judges their efforts.

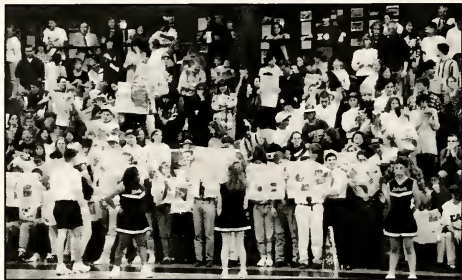

SPS Tacoma Narrows Memorial Bridge Building Contest .

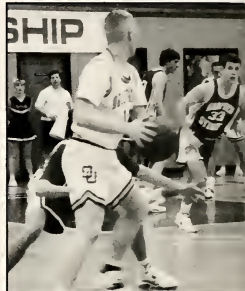

Heather Tyler, Jim Fasse, David Barnhart, Scott Stagg and Elizabeth Stockton each say a quiet prayer as they test the capacity of their bridges.

The Petrel's had a wonderful season and many thought they would go even further than they did. They finished with a 20-6 record overall (including tournament play). And a wonderful 12-6 record in conference. This was possibly the best team we have seen playing at O.U., and it's only gonna get better.

as Prince Zorn.

Following the success of "Love's Labour's Lost," the Playmakers continued to entertain the Oglethorpe campus with their traditional Children's Theatre. With both seasoned and first-time actors and actresses, the Playmakers entered the land of fairy tales. Playing for both O.U. students and children from local elementary schools, "Thirteen Clocks" had everything: princes and princesses, evil villains and crazy imps. "Thirteen Clocks" brought out the child in everyone.

Lenny Keller (Michael Billingsley) remembers his father (Chris Brown).

Ben Hammerstein (Heath Coleman) tries to explain the legal ramifications of Lenny's lawsuit.

After Children's Theatre, the Playmakers moved on to their final performance. Known as the "serious show," this season's troubling play dealt with the subject of child abuse.

Total Abandon

Set in the waiting room of a courthouse, this drama explored the mind of a child abuser: Lenny Keller. Ben Hammerstein, the court appointed attorney, Henry Hirsch, the court appointed psychiatrist, and Walter Bellmon, the coroner, help the audience explore Lenny's past, including the intricate relationship with his father.

Doctor Walter Bellmon (Troy Dwyer) tells Lenny about his son's condition.

Doctor Henry Hirsch (Jon Shiley) comforts a distraught Lenny Keller.

The activities fair gives prospectives many options when they come to OU

Springfest is an annual event at Oglethorpe that allows prospective students to get a glimpse of college life. At Springfest the prospectives get to live in a dormitory for a couple of days, eat the cafeteria food, go to some of the fraternity parties and attend a college class. The prospective students are also split up into teams to compete with each other over the weekend in different events. Also during Springfest were the annual Stomp the Lawn concert and the Playmaker's production of "Total Abandon" which allowed the prospectives to see some of OU's talented thespians. Overall Springfest 1994 was a blast; bring on those prospectives next year.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Bill Davis sends the softball way deep

Jason Fisher bolts for the base

Intramural sports are much awaited times of the year at Oglethorpe. It gives everyone a chance to run around and play some of their favorite sports with other groups here. Intramural sports include volleyball, softball, basketball, and flag football. It allows for some fun competition and allows you to strut your stuff if you've got it or to get some much needed practice in if you don't.

STOMP THE LAWN III

"...down the Ho-Chi-Minh...turn right past the library ...up the hill you'll find a big grassy field...you'll hear it. A bunch o' college students singin', eatin' and screamin' and laughin' ... doin' their damndest to kill off the grass."

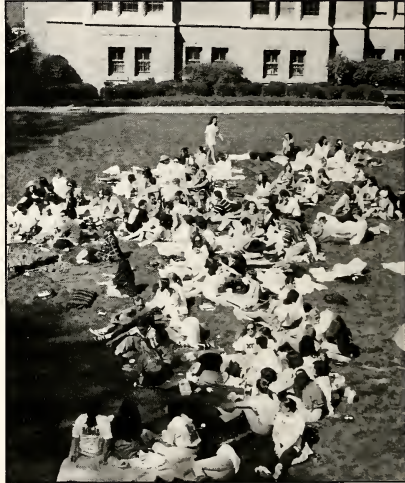

- complements of the Stomp the Lawn T'Shirt

Sure enough on Friday the 8th of April there were all the students of OU singing, eating, screaming and laughing doing their damndest to make full use of a fantastic afternoon in the sun.

The perfect afternoon for laying out was made even more perfect (let us assume) by the Battle of the OU bands. There was great competition between Whore, Black Abner and Harmonal Angst. However it was Harmonal Angst who came out the victors. The OU Dancers were also out their caught up in the tide of spring fever.

As the evening wore on Michelle Malone, Carey Long and Natalie Farr kept the students rocking to the beat. While the OU cafeteria not wanting to disrupt the wonderful setting served dinner out on the quad. Making a very enjoyable time of... killing off the grass.

Yes, they are out there killing that grass.

OU TRACK

The OU Track Team at Conference.

Tinnie sprints her way to the finish line.

Michelle Ponte sprints off to help set the new OU record for the 4x100 relay

Nathan winning the conference title in the High Jump

Although getting off to a late start, O.U.'s track team charged forward with enthusiasm and determination. This year's team, with thirteen new members, made some incredible achievements. Personal records were set weekly as athletes tested their strength and courage against tough competition. Michelle John attacked the hurdles. Kim Jackson, Melissa Drouin, Mark Hannah and Jeff Marmash threw the javelin like Greek gods. Jayme Sellards, Tinnie Waterston, Jim Bowling and Lucy MacGregor jumped to further and further distances. Our distance men and women (Beau Lyons, Will Corum, Katie Farrell, Stephenie Chaby, and Linda Davis) circled the track endlessly.

Besides personal records many school records were threatened and several were broken. Nathan Briesemeister led the way with an outstanding high jump of 6' 9" at the first meet. He went on to place first at Conference with an injured hamstring and a height of 6' 6". Alan Tudors smashed the 3000m steeplechase record in his first attempt and ended with second place at Conference. Katie Farrell led the women with three new records in the 800m, 1500m, and 10,000m runs and was named All-Conference. The women's 4x100m relay team, consisting of Tinnie Waterston, Shelly Robinson, Jim Jackson and Carol Chisom, also broke the school record with ease.

KA

Definition of a Gentleman--- The forbearing use of power does not only form a touchstone but the manner in which an individual enjoys certain advantages over others is a test of a true gentleman. The power which the strong have over the weak, the employer over the employed, the educated over the unlettered, the experienced over the confiding, even the clever over the silly-

The forbearing or inoffensive use of all this power or authority, or a total abstinence from it when the case admits it, will show the gentleman in plain light. The gentleman does not needlessly and unnecessarily remind an offender of a wrong he may have committed against him. He cannot only forgive, he can forget; and he strives for that nobleness of self and mildness of character which impart sufficient strength to let the past be but the past. A true man of honor feels humbled himself when he cannot help humbling others.

---Robert E. Lee

These are the ideals that Kappa Alpha holds themselves to and has existed consistently at Oglethorpe since 1972 as such. The Beta Nu chapter of KA is still growing and will for many years to come. Kappa Alpha and the other three fraternities are here to stay.

ΣΣΣ

Since the year 1987, Oglethorpe University has heard the chant "Sigma Sigma Sigma." This is because in its past six years ΣΣΣ has grown in numbers equivalent to that of Chi Omega. And rest assured Tri-Sigma has made it known. This year Sigma Sigma Sigma has carried on with their annual Halloweenie Roast and Christmas parties. Not only does Tri-Sigma recognize the need to relax and enjoy themselves, but they also recognize the necessity to help others. Through both time and monetary commitments, Tri-Sig traditionally aides the Robbie Page Memorial Hospital in North Carolina. For these and many other reasons Sigma Sigma Sigma has become a voice to be heard on the campus of Oglethorpe University, whether it be during intramurals or late at night on Bid Day.

Bridget Ceccini and Amanda Strains get into the spirit of things during the 8th annual Halloweenie Roast.

The Petrel Page

Oglethorpe University
Alma Mater

Our dear Alma Mater,

to you we sing our praise.

Your gray stone and mortar give strength for the coming days.

Then like the Petrel, feet near the ocean,

We'll rise through wind and rain.

Yes, Oglethorpe, you're here to remind us:

Nescit Cedere.

The room is dim; light gets smothered there. The overhead fluorescent lights only come on when something small is lost--keys, an i.d., or quarters for laundry; even then, it's dark, because the loft throws shadows everywhere. Next to the closet, the black bookcase stands--a little crooked. The books overflow along with papers, pizza coupons, and plastic cups. The closet door has always been off its hinges, and is propped up waiting in the common room. A mountain of dirty clothes spills out from the closet. The floor is always covered with papers, tissues, and torn-covered books, with overturned coffee mugs huddled around the coffee maker. The brown recliner with leather all torn up can't lean back. The red couch covers the back wall under the window. It's in the best condition of anything in the room and hugs us as we lie together on it on cold, rainy days, when we leave the window open to listen to the rain hitting the sidewalk.

Out past the quad of lights, where the trees fight in the shadows against the buildings--walk out by the security booth filled with a sleepy student and the hum of the radio. To the right of the entrance lit up on Peachtree is a rumbled parting of the grass where cement stones cut into the ground. The stadium glows under the moon; the wind blows the flags above the stadium, and they ruffle into the traffic. Machinery sits in the corners of this basement, and I find myself back in my childhood fears. I find the tunnel leading to the stands and walk out. As I slowly walk up the incline, the blinking orange lights from the field house crawl up my face. I turn around at the end of the runway, face the stop of the stadium--along the rim of clouds and the moon. I climb up the stairs and listen to the night sounds out on Peachtree--cars flying to Olympic and Red Dot, a girl hanging out of the car window, screaming at me. On the twenty-first step upward, I stop climbing and sit down so the cold stone seeps through my jeans. The woods loom like black giants, hovering out behind it all. Out here, I know this is my home.

THE ACCOUNTING CLUB

The Committee of the Accounting Club with their Advisor Dr Baker

Their activities are geared toward career development with social functions intermixed. During the year, the club usually goes on field trips to two "Big Six" accounting firms for a tour and a chance to meet accounting professionals. They also have fall and spring parties to meet recruiters and alumni in a more social setting. During the spring, speakers from the Atlanta area come to campus to talk with the accounting club about career plans, recruiting and interviewing. Another career development activity is mock interviews. These interviews are for rising seniors in preparing for the interview process. These activities are beneficial to all accounting majors as they plan for careers in the field.

Dr Baker and Dr Middleton consider themselves the "father" and the "mother" of accounting here at Oglethorpe. They take great pride in making sure that through the Accounting Club all accounting majors not only meet the academic requirements but also learn the social skills they will need upon graduation to get a job. Thus the Accounting Club is a great asset to all the prospective accountants here at Oglethorpe University.

Alpha Phi Omega is the national co-ed service fraternity founded on the principles of the Boy Scouts of America. They provide service to the campus, the community, and to the nation as a whole as well as their fellow brothers. Friendship, Leadership, and Service are their cardinal principles. This year they have had many successful service projects including the blood drive, special olympics, bowl for kids' sake, recycling and clothes drives, and many walk-a-thons. The Mu Mu chapter of Alpha Phi Omega was founded on Oglethorpe's campus in 1958 and continues to be a strong and active part of the school.

Black Student Caucus

The 1993-1994 year was a good one for Oglethorpe's Black Student Caucus (the BSC). In the Spring BSC held its annual bakesale (always looked forward to by our hungry faculty), had several movie nights, and attended Freaknik '94 downtown. The BSC is looking forward to presenting even more great activities for all Oglethorpe students in '94-'95.

The athletes that belong to the O Club actively support all athletic teams in the University, aid the athletic department in recruitment and visitation, and publicize events around the school. After getting off to a slow start, the club is now currently planning for a busy year in 1994.

Oglethorpe Christian Fellowship

Ask any member of OCF just what they do in Oglethorpe Christian Fellowship and you'll likely get a different answer every time. Every Tuesday a large group meeting is held with special guest speakers and musicians. Also during the week, smaller group Bible studies are conducted, as well as prayer meetings. Several members attended a Fall Retreat in Covington, while others opted to go to the University of Illinois for a missions conference. These men and women were part of a group of over 17,000 other students at this winter outing. This summer, OCF members will be in Panama City Beach for a time of fun and fellowship.

The Playmakers

This year the O.U. Playmakers soared to new heights of excellence. Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost," the children's musical "Thirteen Clocks," and Larry Atlas's "Total Abandon" proved that the Playmakers were not only versatile but dedicated actors and actresses. However, what the audience did not see during the rehearsals and performances was just as entertaining. This was the year of forgetting one's entrance due to diarrhea. This was also the year of "Stomp the Baby," an "R" rated Barney, and the lovely thigh slap. Quite a few quotes have been immortalized as well, but no quote can compare with the proclamation:

"Your ass is mine, and I'm a lawnmower!"

In closing, the Playmakers would like to congratulate one of their own on the occasion of her engagement and upcoming wedding:

Congrats, M.C.! We love you!

Pre-Med Association

First Row: Natalye Baranovskaya, Jennifer Guerrero, Trudy Jones.
Second Row: Leia Inzerello, Susan Shirley, Jennifer Dattalo, Dr.
Schadler, Dennis Kiernan, .

Members of this organization all have one lofty goal in common - they all want to be part of the medical profession, (not to mention being part of Bill Clinton's health care plan!)

This has been an active year for the Pre-Med Association. In the fall, they took a tour of the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta. They also had an opportunity to hear various speakers, a podiatrist and an Air Force health recruiter, just to name a few! At their annual Pre-Med Banquet, four OU alumni told how the education they received here helped get them through medical school and on to their present occupation.

The OU Chapter of SPS sponsored a wide range of successful activities during this 3rd year since its founding.

Ongoing chapter programs include the SPS Faculty Lecture Series, the SPS Sci-Fi movie series, and regular showings of science educational films. SPS annually sponsors several of the most visible OU "Geek Week" events, notable the extraordinarily successful Paper airplane and Popsicle-Stick Bridge Building Contests. Other SPS activities included volunteer assistance to admissions on visitation days, informal chapter meetings, and assistance to the Science Division. SPS also inducted members into $\Sigma\Pi\Sigma$, the national physics honor society operated by SPS. SPS played an important role in the university's Fall 1993 Cosmology Lecture Series.

SPS was awarded the 1993-94 OU Dean's Award in recognition of SPS's high level of activity as a campus organization. The chapter was also named a national "Outstanding Chapter".

Dr. Edward Kolb, Head of the NASA/Fermilab Astrophysics Group, is inducted into SPS prior to delivering a lecture for science students during the Fall 1993 Cosmology Lecture Series.

Dr. Virginia Trimble, noted astronomy speaker, writer, and researcher, signs the Oglethorpe SPS membership book during the Fall 1993 Cosmology Lecture Series.

1993-94 has been a year of changes for the staff and readers of the school newspaper, the Stormy Petrel. An updated format was introduced with a broader range of stories. The staff worked diligently to get the paper out on time, without sacrificing the quality. Included was more room for editorials, giving a voice for many opinions. Staff members also presented both on and off campus events, keeping everyone informed. With such a large staff, every person had to contribute to the finished product. Their hard work is evident on all the pages of the Stormy Petrel.

Editor-in-chief Ryan Queen glares at the camera for distracting him as he edits the next issue of the newspaper.

After you finish
hitting the books,
You have to start
hitting the streets.

You'll need a map.

SAA and Alumni mentors can help you find the right path.

The Student Alumni Association works closely with the alumni office to keep the alumni of OU informed and involved in our activities. They help coordinate Homecoming, Alumni weekend, and the alumni mentor program which tries to match up students with alumni in their areas of interest. SAA had a slow start this year as a relatively new group on campus but watch for it again because things are sure to begin kicking up.

*"Sweet rose, fair flower, untimely plucked, soonfaded-
Plucked in the bud and faded in the spring;
Bright orient pearl, alack, too timely shaded;
Fair creature, killed too soon by death's sharp sting,
Like a green plum that hangs upon a tree
And falls through wind before the fall should be."
-William Shakespeare*

Look at the stuff hidden deep in the abyss of the stadium!

*"Crabbed age and youth cannot live together:
Youth is full of pleasance, age is full of care;
Youth like summer morn, age like winter weather;
Youth like summer brave, age like winter bare.
Youth is full of sport, age's breath is short..
Youth is nimble, age is lame,
Youth is hot and bold, age is weak and cold.
Youth is wild and age is time.*

Age, I do abhor thee; youth, I do adore thee.

O my love, my love is young.

*Age, I do defy thee. O sweet shepherd, hie thee,
For methinks thou stay'st too long."*

-William Shakespeare
